Campolo, Middleton & McCormick Adds New Attorney

Martin Glass joins law firm and will head Trusts & Estates Practice Group

Bohemia, NY – Campolo, Middleton & McCormick, LLP, a leading full-service Long Island law firm, has announced that Martin S. Glass has joined the firm as Of Counsel. His practice focuses on elder law, trusts, estate planning, long-term care, special needs planning and asset preservation. Before joining Campolo, Middleton & McCormick, Glass was a Senior Associate at Davidow, Davidow, Siegel and Stern, LLP.

“The firm is extremely pleased that Marty has joined us,” said Joe Campolo, partner at Campolo, Middleton & McCormick. “His addition to our team and leadership of our Trusts & Estates Practice Group expands our list of services, while continuing to provide the big firm quality and small firm value that our clients have come to expect.”

Glass, who lives in Port Jefferson Station, NY, began his professional career as a software engineer. He went to law school at night, while working full time as an Engineer. He has been practicing in elder law and estate planning for more than 14 years. Glass is an active member of the New York State Bar Association's Elder Law and Trust and Estates Sections and the Suffolk County Bar's Elder Law and Surrogate Court Committees. He is also a member of the Senior Umbrella Network (SUN) of Suffolk County and is currently their Treasurer.
